Delaware's eBrightHealth Joins Strategic Regional Healthcare Organization, The National Association (SRHO)

PHILADELPHIA, PA (November 13, 2017)

Delaware-based eBrightHealth is the newest member of Strategic Regional Healthcare Organizations, The National Association (SRHO), an organization established to generate value among individual SRHOs.

SRHO serves as a forum for members to pursue collective efforts on population health and cost reduction, development of new businesses initiatives as well as advocacy at the national level. Association members have access to invaluable resources and opportunities to work within a large network of SRHO peers to accelerate performance and grow through the exchange of experiences, best practices and knowledge.

“We are very pleased to have eBrightHealth join SRHO and contribute to our collective efforts to create scale, radically reduce costs, and establish the fundamental building blocks to manage risk as the market moves in that direction,” says SRHO Board Chair, Greg Devine.

eBrightHealth is an innovative SRHO in Delaware working to increase access to health care services and improve the quality and affordability of care statewide. It consists of five health systems including Bayhealth, Beebe Healthcare, Christiana Care Health System, Nanticoke Health Services, and Nemours Alfred I. DuPont Hospital for Children.

Janice Nevin, M.D., MPH, Chair, eBrightHealth Board of Managers and President & CEO, Christiana Care Health System, says “SRHO will be a valuable resource for us as we look to partner with others facing similar challenges to raise the quality of care. eBrightHealth is built on the desire to offer the residents of Delaware a better healthcare future through collaboration and innovation and we believe our membership and participation in SRHO will be key in advancing this central goal.”

Membership in SRHO represents over 350 hospitals in 24 states. For more information on the organization please visit www.srho.org.
